SLOW BOAT TO CHINA HUGO WEST

Another fun-filled holiday adventure with Robyn and Hugo West who are enjoying retirement in England after spending many of their 'golden years' exploring the USA and Africa.

In this highly amusing Oriental journey the Wests first fly into Singapore - where Robyn buys a new wardrobe in Chinatown and Hugo samples street food at a Hawker Centre yum, yum. Then, in a day-by-day account, Hugo describes the high life aboard a luxury cruise liner as they sail for Beijing calling at ports in Thailand and Vietnam for some fascinating excursions ashore, including almost missing their boat in Halong Bay and learning how to cook Vietnamese style in Saigon.

On mainland China, they take the bullet-style train to Shanghai - at 303 kilometers an hour - that's 188 mph and it's a woman driving into the bargain! In Shanghai While Robyn falls ill with tummy trouble - but still manages to commission a few bespoke dresses from her sickbed - Hugo is sent for medicine to a pharmacy where no-one speaks English and he has to describe diarrhea with just body motions and sound effects! (The mind boggles)

Not only will this book give you loads of tips about cruising, but will also provide a fascinating insight into how to and not to go about experiencing the best of everything as a tourist in the Orient. Hugo's unique mixture of fun, funnies and food, plus his bucolic comments, travel crises and a generous dose of good olde English codswallop make this another easy, entertaining and informative read.
