How the pastor reads a situation theologically will define the possibilities for ministry now and for the church's future.

The pastor's theological lens effects every ministry task. This book introduces students to the importance of reflective reflection. It asks them to think theologically about who they are and what they do, and it shows them how they can acquire and strengthen their capacity for theological attentiveness. Charles M. and Blue's approach is the conviction that pastoral character and pastoral practice are mutually formative. Also through the practice of ministry the pastor's identity is both continually discovered and continually worked on and worked out. All pastors must integrate who they believe themselves to be and who they believe God is to be effective leaders.
